JOB DISCRIMINATION IN COUNTY?
Commissioner Tracy calls hiring of all-white managers a 'mistake'

By TED OSHODI
Call and Post City Editor

Twelve all-white division managers were appointed by Franklin County Commissioners between 1981 and 1986, but four of those appointments were made by the previous administration, according to Commissioner Roger W. Tracy.

Tracy said the hiring of eight other managers was a mistake, and that it was mainly "due to pressures of the first year in office."

Tracy, who made the remark during an interview with The CALL & POST Monday (Aug. 31), said he was speaking "only for himself" in response to allegations that Blacks are being frozen out of the Franklin County Human Services Department.

DOYLE SEEKS COMMUNITY HELP
Trial in bias lawsuit against Marzetti set

Jerry L. Doyle, 34, who has been in a legal battle since March, 1980 against his employer, is trying to raise a total of $950 for witness fees, subpoenas and depositions that need to be taken before an Oct. 26 jury trial in a $500,000 racial discrimination lawsuit in U.S. District Court.

T. Marzetti Company, 3838 Indianola Ave. allegedly fired Doyle for staying in the restroom "for too long" despite permission by his supervisor.

On May 12, a three-judge panel of the Ohio Court of Appeals Tenth Appellate District, reversed an Aug. 11, 1986 decision of Franklin County Common Pleas Court Judge Thomas J. Martin.

In his decision, Judge Martin reversed the Ohio Civil Rights Commission's ruling, which found a probable cause for employment discrimination against T. Marzetti.

The three-judge panel in their ruling, re-affirmed the lower court decision that Doyle be given his job back with back pay. The suit is seeking punitive damages from Marzetti.

On May 14, the Court of Appeals filed a journal of entry in Franklin County Common Pleas Court, seeking a decision from Judge C. Howard Johnson, who was assigned to the case.

Judge Johnson received the entry Aug. 25, according to a source, but as of Tuesday (Aug. 31), a decision had not been made on Doyle's case.

The CALL & POST learned that Judge Johnson will not be back on the bench until Sept. 7.

Judge Johnson is expected to apply the law that was cited in the decision of the Court of Appeals and apply that in making a decision on the Doyle-Marzetti case, said Gary W. Deeds, attorney representing Doyle.

Meanwhile, Doyle said: "Right now, I need help from members of the community in trying to raise the money that is needed by Sept. 10 so that all the 12 witnesses can be subpoenaed and testify for me. The same thing that happened to me could happen to any Blacks in this community. The struggle is not over yet."

Donations to Doyle Defense Fund can be forwarded to: Doyle Defense Fund 299 S. Ogden Ave. Columbus, Ohio 43204.

COLETTE JONES
...set for miss columbia pageant

CSU coed in Miss Columbus
finals Sept. 9

Colette Jones, 20, daughter of Ronald and Wilma Bradley, of Columbus, is one of ten girls selected Aug. 18 to compete in the 1987 Miss Columbus, Ohio Pageant, which will be held Sept. 9 at 7:15 p.m. at the Fort Hayes Career Center.

Jones, of 1011 Miller Ave. and a 1985 graduate of South High School, says she is optimistic and that she would do her best in the contest.

Jones was among 30 contestants and was able to make it to the top ten after a preliminary contest at the Columbus Chamber of Commerce.

The winner of the 1987 Miss Columbus, Ohio pageant will be featured in a parade downtown Oct. 9, 10 and 11.

Jones, a sophomore at Central State University, majors in Computer and Information System. She is on the track team of the university. She throws discus and shot-put.

Dayton's newest prison offers inmates responsibility

By RAYMOND L. SMITH
Call and Post staff reporter

Editor's note: This is the third of a series of articles that will appear concerning correctional institutions, inmates, and legislation concerning prisons.

It really does not remind you of a college campus, but it does not look like any prison most people would imagine either.

Dayton Correctional Institute, one of Ohio's new medium security prisons, appears to be a hybrid of the two concepts.

Following the philosophy that most of the inmates going into the institution will one day return to the overall community, the prison, in its design and its administration, is said to give inmates responsibility in their work, school and other personal habits, while incarcerating them for the crimes they were convicted of committing.

Designed for a maximum of 480 prisoners, the institute has single occupancy cells; recreation areas with pool and ping pong tables, common area televisions, washer and dryers, and various facilities housing a school, work areas and a gymnasium.

The prison compound is on 63 acres of land off Germantown Road, on the eastern side of the city of Dayton. Its yard is within a fenced-in 25-acre parcel of land, whose 10 buildings are configured to give an impression of a small college campus.

"Placing a man in a gilded cage does not make him any less of a prisoner," described Superintendent Reginald A. Wilkinson, a former Cleveland and one of only two Black superintendents in Ohio's correctional system.

"Dayton is designed to give prisoners every opportunity to reform," said Wilkinson, "but it is primarily here to take away people's abilities to move freely around in society. It is as much a punishment as those prisons which are administered to take away all the prisoner's ability to be responsible for himself."

Despite the appearance of its inner courts, the institute is built to prevent almost any escape. The prison yard is surrounded by two 12-foot high chain-link fences, which are topped with coils of razor-sharp barbed wire. Both fences, and the ground between them, have electronic sensors capable of detecting cutting, climbing and movement.

Cells can be locked electronically from master control switches in the prisoners' living quarters and from a master control center housed in the main administration building. The facility employs 90 guards. There are approximately 40 guards patrolling the grounds most of the day. Guards within the living quarters are equipped with sensors which will go off if the guard is incapacitated.

Calling this generation of prisons "escape-proof", Wilkinson, whose educational background includes degrees in education and urban planning, believes his job is creating the best work environment for his employees, while giving the inmates the ingredients to be productive citizens.

"We do not rehabilitate," said Wilkinson. "It must be understood that many prisoners who come here were not 'habilitated', so how can we 'rehabilitate' them?"

"To do this, first we test their education level and find out what they can do in a job," explained Wilkinson. "If they have to be taught how to read and to compute numbers up to the third grade level, then we will automatically enroll them into classes."

"Otherwise, we'll give them the opportunity to sign up for classes, for work or for both," he continued.

Masonic 1990 convention could be biggest Black event in city's history

The largest Black convention ever to visit Columbus has been scheduled for July, 1990.

The International Free and Accepted Modern Masons/Supreme Convention will bring up to 20,000 participants for a full week of activities, it was announced this week by Melvin B. Dodge, president of the Greater Columbus Convention & Visitors Bureau.

The announcement followed months of work by the Bureau and local leaders of the fraternal organization. Spearheading the campaign was Jim King, Convention Sales Director for the GCCVB.

King outlined events leading up to the decision this way: "We were able to land a regional meeting of the organization. When the national leaders visited for what we call an on-site inspection, they were amazed to see what we had to offer. By the time we were finished detailing all of our attractions, they were convinced that Columbus was for them."

King said that several elements were emphasized in the presentation. They included: hotel accommodations, meeting space, free downtown COTA service

DOREATHER JOHNSON
...newly-elected imperial potentate noble

Imperial Potentate Johnson to take oath at convention

The International F&M (Free and Accepted Modern Masons) and the Order of the Eastern Stars, Inc. will convene in Columbus Sept. 4-6 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, 350 N. High St.

Meetings and workshops will begin daily at 9 a.m. A luncheon will be held Saturday, Sept. 5, at 2 p.m.

During the convention the newly-elected Imperial Potentate, Noble Doreather Johnson will take the oath of office. He was initiated into the Masonry in 1967, and since then he has been an active member.

"Before I held any office in the organization I worked with the initiation team, that traveled all over the state of Ohio," Johnson said. "One year after joining I became the worshipful Master of Oliver Lodge No. 9, which is my foundation house right now."

While serving as Worshipful Master, Noble Johnson was also the recording secretary of Buckeye Grand Lodge, state of Ohio. He was in the Royal Arch Degree in 1968, and has served as financial secretary of Dunbar Chapter.

Noble Johnson has served, and he is currently serving as the Grand Principal Sojourner for Joppa Grand Chapter. He was in the Knights of Templar in 1970.

Noble Johnson who served in different offices with a number of organizations, is also a member of the 33rd degree Council of International F&M Masons in the Supreme Convention, held in Miami, Fla. in July. He was elected to the office of Imperial Potentate of All International F&M Masons Shriners Around The World.

"I am looking forward to performing greater and better work in the coming year with the help of Almighty God," Noble Johnson said.

Johnson is the Grand Potentate of Grand Arabic Temple No. 5 in the state of Ohio International Mason's Shriners. He has served

Dayton's newest prison

Prisoners who do not make it to an assignment are either given demerits on their records — which can affect their chances for parole — or given some other type of discipline, such as sending them to one of the prison's 20 disciplinary cells.

"We are trying to instill in the prisoners work habits, which for most people were instilled in them when they were children," said Wilkinson.

According to Wilkinson, by making inmates responsible for a reasonable amount of their freedom, the prison system has a better chance of moving them away from their old habits, than if they took away all of their needs to do anything.

"Prisoners who become dependent on us doing everything, will have less opportunity to make it on their own once they leave the facility," commented Wilkinson.

According to prisoners interviewed, the administration and the prison is far from perfect. The newness of the administration within the prison makes it difficult to know exactly how they are supposed to act, lamented some prisoners.

Victor Tommie, 27, who has been in Ohio's correctional facilities since he was 21, admits the structural facilities at Dayton are the best he has experienced, but complains the psychological games prisoners must endure are worse than at higher security prisons he had been assigned to serve in.

Tommie, who was transferred to Dayton because of his outstanding prison record at Lebanon Correctional Institute, complains that the prisoners at Dayton are treated like children.

"Rules are changed everyday," challenged Tommie. "The guards, particularly the female guards, sometimes check to see if prisoners washed behind their ears. For no reason that the inmates are aware of, rights to use certain areas of the yards will be taken away and will not be returned for days, maybe weeks, at a time."

"We do not know what to expect," he continued.

From his experience at Lebanon, Tommie described many of the guards at Dayton as inexperienced and, for the most part, more concerned with their jobs and games for power than creating an environment where they and the prisoners can grow and learn.

"It could be that many of them are new to the job and are reacting more from book sense than common sense," he said. "But that is making it tough on everyone," he continued.

Being involved with the prison system for most of his adult life, Tommie is leery of how well the education and jobs programs will actually help him when he eventually gets out. He has earned an associate degree and learned some basic clerical skills, but over the years he has seen people who did all of the right things, return complaining of the lack of opportunities for ex-convicts.

Even with the complaints of psychological head games that the prison guards and administration play on the prisoners, most of those talked to, believe it is better to be assigned to Dayton than many other institutions in the state.

"If the administration can get its act together in forming and following its own rules, then a lot will get accomplished here," said Tommie. "Without that consistency, prisoners will not learn to be responsible and be able to work within the system."

Tommie and other prisoners interviewed wondered if sending first-time offenders directly to institutions like Dayton is wise.

"If part of a prison's mission is to show what can happen to you if you continue on a life of crime, then some hard heads will come to a place like this and say: 'I can handle this,'" commented Tommie. "They are going to believe that all prisons are like this and come to a rude awakening the next time they are caught committing a crime."

"I think a place like this should be used for people who have spent some time in a more traditional prison-like facility, whose record shows they have earned a place like this," commented Tommie.

"They will be able to appreciate how good they have it," he continued.

Black studies activities set

The OSU Black Studies Community Extension Center, 905 Mt. Vernon Ave., will be the site for the following activities Sept. 8 and 12:

- Tuesday, Sept. 8, from 5 to 9 p.m. OSU Continuing Education — Minority Continuing Education Opportunities Open House. K. Montagno. 292-8860.

- Saturday, Sept. 12, 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Delta Sigma Theta Ms. William Wilson 868-5539.

For further information, contact, Martha Dillard, assistant program manager, at 292-4459.

With his first parole board hearing coming up next month, Tommie's greatest fear is not his record while being in prison, but the board traveling to Dayton and, based upon the "easy-life" inmates at the institution have, keeping them in longer than they would normally.

"Can you imagine a parole board, whose constituency is already complaining that they are releasing prisoners too early, coming down and seeing this?" suggested Tommie, commented.

"If I think my parole is held up because of this, I am going to immediately ask for a transfer," continued Tommie. "This may be comfortable, but not enough for me to spend extra time in jail for."

"Nothing is worth that," said Tommie.

Director credits area youth to 16 years at the centers

Hubert Lindsey, director of Sullivant Gardens Community Center, 755 Renick Street, says, "the smartest thing I ever did was get involved with kids."

In the 16 years he has been with the Columbus Recreation and Parks Department, he has had the chance to meet and work with many youth. His greatest success story is about seeing Jerry Page grow up, and through his training at recreation centers, become an Olympic Gold Medalist in boxing and sharing his knowledge and experience with others.

Lindsey, a native of Steubenville, came to Columbus after attending the University of Wyoming. In Wyoming, he was active and successful in basketball and football. Even as a youngster he played many different sports and learned them well. Sports, however, are just a part of Lindsey's life.

This big man who looks at home on a football field is as equally competent learning a new craft to take back to his center or teaching basic gymnastics. His philosophy is that you can learn something from everyone and he does whether it's quilting from a senior citizen member of his center or a new card game from a child.

Now director at Sullivant Gardens, Lindsey opened the Milo-Grogan center and also worked at Windsor and Linden. He feels that the greatest contribution he has made to the black community came through recreation. "When I talk to the youth, I always tell them to learn as much as they can, to be sociable and to be involved," he said.

Sullivant Gardens is a fairly new center that draws most of its participants from the housing surrounding it. Lindsey makes a strong effort to involve all the neighbors, young and old, in the activities of the center.

When teens come to him because they want to have a talent show or some other event, he does all he can to spark their initiative as he helps them work through any problems. He makes a strong effort to have his center be a family place with events for everyone. "What I most want to do in my community is to offer the best program and see people use their leisure time in a positive way," Lindsey said.

Black caucus holds 17th annual confab Sep. 23-27

The Congressional Black Caucus will hold its 17th annual Legislative Weekend from Wednesday, September 23 to Sunday September 27 at the Washington Hilton Hotel in Washington, D.C. The theme of the conference will be, "Educating the Black Child: Our Past and our Future."

Conferees at the sessions will discuss a number of key political and social issues, including minority set-asides, science, space and technology and education issues.

"These issue forums will address subjects of major concern, not just relevant to the Black community, but the whole nation," said Congressman Mickey Leland (D-Tex.), chairman of the weekend.

Other forums will confront issues such as the Third World; teenage unemployment; welfare reform; drug abuse, and poverty.

Rev. Gardner Taylor, pastor of the Concord Baptist Church in Brooklyn, New York, will be the featured speaker at the annual Prayer Breakfast for the group on Saturday, September 26. Taylor has been called by Time magazine as "the Dean of the nation's Black preachers."

To be honored at the conference will be: Adelaide L. Sanford, newest member of the New York State Board of Regents, who will receive the Humanitarian award; Milton Carroll, chairman of the Board of Regents of Texas Southern University, who will receive the George W. Collins Award; Lt. Gov. Douglas Wilder of Virginia, who will receive the Adam Clayton Powell Jr. Award; and Marian Wright Edelman, director of the Children's Defense Fund, who will receive the William L. Dawson Award.

Edelman will also serve as keynote speaker at the annual banquet, to be held on Saturday, September 26.

Information on the conference is available by calling (202) 543-8767.

SELECTED as outstanding students in the Nationwide Insurance Summer Youth Program are (from left): Stacie Tackett and Trina Brown, both of East High School; Teresa Marcum of Beechcroft; and Judith Pilkington of Mifflin. Brown was selected as the top student in the program.

East High School student given award of excellence

Trina Brown, a senior at East High School, won student of the year honors in Nationwide Insurance's Summer Youth Program.

Her selection as the top student was based on attitude, attendance, and appearance while working at Nationwide for the summer. Also recognized for excellence were Teresa Marcum of Beechcroft, Judith Pilkington of Mifflin, and Stacie Tackett of East. Altogether, 27 students were awarded for perfect attendance.

Presentation of awards was made at a company-sponsored luncheon for the 47 students who worked at the company for 10 weeks this summer. Franklin County Municipal Judge Janet Jackson was the guest speaker for the luncheon.

Program participants were recommended by Columbus Public Schools guidance counselors, the Columbus Urban League, and other organizations.

Nationwide's Summer Youth Program aims to provide students a chance to earn money and learn good work habits while gaining experience in a business environment. In its 21st year, Nationwide's program is one of the longest in continuous operation in Central Ohio.

Judge Jackson encouraged the students to dream—and to set goals to make those dreams come true.

"Dreams should never be a substitute for the hard work that needs to be done," she said. "First dream. Then devise a plan...set goals and work daily to meet those goals."

Judge Jackson also advised the students to beware of three myths as they strive to fulfill their dreams:

• "Don't think that success is achieved with one continuous motion." It's usually peppered with one step back for every two steps forward, she countered.

• "In your quest to fulfill your dream, don't be afraid to fail."

• "Success isn't measured by material wealth...but by service to others."

Judge Jackson is the first Black woman to hold a seat on the Franklin County Municipal Court bench. She grew up on a tobacco farm in Randolph, Va., and received her bachelor's degree from Wittenberg University and a law degree from Prestigious National Law Center of George Washington, D.C.

COLUMBUS MINORITY BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT CENTER SEPTEMBER CONFERENCES SET

Minority entrepreneurs can learn more about marketing their goods and services and female entrepreneurs can learn how to handle the stresses of being in business. The Columbus Minority Business Development Center has two exciting conferences planned for September.

SEPTEMBER 19, 1987

Planned especially for women in business. A spokesperson from the State's Women's Resource Center will discuss the assistance available to Female Entrepreneurs... an insurance expert will talk about bonding and insurance coverage... a human resources expert will look at the human side of being a woman and being the boss. The session will be held on September 19th at the Downtown Holiday Inn, 4th and Town Streets, starting with registration at 9:00 a.m. the conference fee is $10.00.

SEPTEMBER 26, 1987

This session is planned to help small firms do a better job marketing the goods and services they offer. "Public Relations As Part Of The Marketing Mix", will cover some of the options available to small business owners. Important keys to survival, Advertising, Public Relations and Marketing are often neglected by small firms. The session will be held on September 26th, at the Downtown Holiday Inn, 4th and Town Streets, starting with registration at 9:00 a.m. the conference fee is $10.00.

For information of either session, call the Columbus Minority Business Development Center at 252-0197. The Minority Business Development Center is located at 815 E. Mound Street.

TEACHING FOR THE STARS—Dr. Charles Woodward, a post-doctorate research associate at the Wyoming Infrared Observatory, and Brain Pickett, of Cornell University, work on a two meter (80") class, infrared optimized telescope. The observatory that houses this piece of equipment is located at Mt. Jelm in the Medicine Bow National Forest near Laramie, WY.

Black physicist, astronomer probes the final frontier

...physicist, astronomer

Delight Woodward take great pride in saying, "My grandson the doctor!"

No, Mrs. Woodward's grandson is not a medical doctor, as that phrase usually suggests, but he holds a doctorate in physics and astronomy.

Dr. Charles "Chick" Woodward is currently a post-doctorate research associate at the University of Wyoming's Infrared Observatory.

Mrs. Woodward, of Columbus, said, "Chick is not your typical head. He's down to earth and loves to have a good time."

Woodward is also renowned for being an athlete and a musician. Chick was a member of his high school and college ice hockey team and was a xylophone player with the Dartmouth (College) Philharmonic. Presently, he enjoys cross-country biking, mountain climbing, and running miles a day.

His interest in astronomy began when his father Dr. Kenneth Woodward gave him a telescope age 14. Woodward's fascination with the stars has not wavered since then.

Incidentally, the elder Woodward was a pediatrician in Rochester, NY, where he was a pioneer in preventive medicine, Mrs. Woodward indicated.

At Dartmouth, Chick majored in physics and conducted senior thesis work on the properties of

While peering into the heavens at a Mexico observatory, Woodward discovered a faint star. If he finds it again, his grandmother says "It will be named for him."

"Chick, who is one of the few Blacks to work in this field, is totally dedicated to his work, because he believes in it," she said. "Astronomy and physics take a lot of hard work, dedication and concentration, and he has made it his first priority."

superconducting thin film junctions.

Woodward entered the graduate program in physics and astronomy at the University of Rochester where he received a master of arts degree and a Ph.D. His doctoral dissertation at the University of Rochester was on "Observations of Dust and Gas in NGC 7027 and the M8 Hourglass."

He was awarded a Ford Foundation Fellowship and the Astronomical Society of New York State graduate student prize.

An example of intense dedication, Woodward's studies have challenged some existing theories which are used to explain physical properties of dust and light emissions from nebulae and stars. Five previously held theories were disproved or seriously challenged as explanations, his father explained.

Delinquent real estate taxpayers get notices

More than 11,000 notices to delinquent taxpayers were mailed last week by Franklin County treasurer Bobbie M. Hall. The delinquent taxes total $11.2 million.

The notices inform the delinquents that if they pay their back taxes by Sept. 18 they will avoid further penalties and interest charges and their names will not be included on the list of delinquent taxpayers published each September by the County Auditor.

A taxpayer becomes delinquent when he fails to pay his real estate taxes for two consecutive collection periods. Ohio statute allows the county prosecutor to foreclose on property after a taxpayer has been delinquent for two years.

Delinquents have the option of paying off their back taxes in five installments over a two-and-a-half year period providing they remain current in their regular tax payments over that period. About 10 percent of delinquent taxpayers use this plan known as "current-and-five."

IN OUR OPINION

Labor Day 1987

Labor Day has changed quite a bit since President Grover Cleveland signed a law in 1889 making Labor Day a national holiday. Once Labor Day was a reflective, expressive day commemorating struggle of organized labor for humane working conditions and a living wage.

Today, Labor Day is a day of fun and frivolity, a day of rest and relaxation. Most people will not have to work. Those that will work are civil servants or workers at the bottom end of the pay scale.

Labor Day now signals the end of summer, a time for a final barbecue for family and friends. Compared to the original intent, the day pales, much like industrial America pales in contrast to a glorious past.

America is suffering because labor asked for too much and management demanded too little. The abuses of big labor and the acquiescence of management to the most frivolous of demands haunt this nation daily. Available jobs and unemployed workers don't match.

Much of the American labor force as it is constituted is an endangered species because the policies of the federal government has allowed emerging nations to treat America as a foreign colony.

The nation's wealthiest and most powerful class of people continue to get rich as they export jobs and opportunity to Asia and low wage third world countries. Left behind are the poor, the undereducated, the displaced auto or steel workers nearing retirement, who can't be economically retrained and lack the skills for available jobs.

These are not the poor, the elderly or minorities. These are the millions of people that constituted the "silent majority." These are law-abiding, family raising, church going, suburbanites that epitomize the American dream. Something must be done to protect them by providing new employment opportunities. There are many places to start. What is needed, is a national commitment.

Both the conditions that gave birth to the Labor Movement and the attitudes that have nearly destroyed it are in the past. Facing labor, and all Americans, is the challenge of putting workers back to work, in meaningful jobs, before hostilities between the have and have-nots become front page news?

NCAA hypocrisy

It is unclear who the National Collegiate Athletic Association, that guardian of the purity of college sports, is attempting to protect in its effort to clean up college athletics.

It is clear that they are manifestly unconcerned about the athletes themselves. After all, the only thing this body has done to promote higher academic standards was enact Proposition 48, which stiffened rules for incoming freshmen and forced those freshmen to sit out a year if they are unable to meet the new rules.

That this new rule had a disproportionate impact on Black athletes; that it also had a serious affect on Black schools, which accept many students into academic programs with test scores comparable to, or even below, the Proposition 48 standards, seems to indicate that they are not too concerned about the Black students.

It is also, sadly, clear that they are really unconcerned about true academic standards. If the NCAA were, they would enact penalties on universities that fail to graduate their student athletes. They would mandate that athletes have a full scholarship for as long as they continue their effort to receive an education. In other words, they would look more closely at the results of the educational process, than the entry to the process, in order to ensure stringent academic standards.

Well, then, what are they concerned about? The answer seems obvious: about the prestige of the universities, and about protecting the system which provides the schools — and the NCAA — with big dollars, often at the expense of the students.

This is clearly seen in the Cris Carter situation. Carter is the talented Ohio State University wide receiver who was suspended from college football after having taken money to sign with an agent.

Carter is now in a no-man's land. The National Football League does not want him to apply for the special supplemental draft, because the colleges are putting pressure on it. After all, the college football game is a free feeder system for the pros, and a lucrative money-maker for the colleges.

It is clear that OSU does not want Carter back. It is also clear that the school wants to prevent Carter from making a living in his chosen profession until they decide it is time.

The hypocrisy in this approach is patently clear. College athletes — many of whom are Black — are treated as second-class citizens in the academic arena. Many of them are recruited without any consideration of their academic interests or needs, and maintained as eligible through a number of academic ruses. This is acceptable, it seems, until somebody blows the whistle, and the word gets out that the athlete can't read.

At the same time, the athletic scholarship student must operate under a different set of rules than the academic scholarship athlete. No one tells the academic scholarship athlete how much he can work, or with whom, or when. No one restricts the amount of income he can earn. But this is standard — indeed, required — for the athletic scholarship student.

The athletic scholarship student often pays out big dividends to the university which is able to gain his services. It has been estimated that Georgetown University gained over $20 million in donations, NCAA payments and other funds because of the presence of Patrick Ewing at the school for four years. Yet Ewing was unable to gain anything close to the value he meant to the university — even from sources unconnected with the university.

As this is written, it is unclear what will happen to Cris Carter. However, it is clear that college sports have a serious image problem. Its hypocrisy is being exposed on a grand scale. It is becoming more obvious every day that the collegiate establishment is not particularly concerned whether Cris Carter graduates, but whether he competes for four years without making himself ineligible.

This is not to defend Cris Carter. It is clear that he violated the rules as he understood them, and then lied about his role. However, as the New York Times recently said, "College football makes money legally for everybody but the players." And the NCAA — and the member universities — want to make sure that it stays that way.

CHANGING OF THE GUARD...

IN YOUR OPINION

Public distracted from important issues

The Iran/Contra Hearings have investigated Oliver North, John Poindexter, and those who broke the unwritten law: "Thou shalt not interfere with communists or their goals."

When was the last time, for instance, Congress investigated the extent that loans, credits, grain, and technology from the United States keeps the communists in power throughout the world?

The Hearings have distracted us from the more important issue: Why Congress, in the first place, allows American aid and trade with communist nations, without which support communism would collapse.

Sincerely,
Joseph M. Ogrinc
Bratenahl, OH

Evaluating responsibility

Some of what Walter E. Williams said in his column "Minority View" (Call and Post 8/20/87) is applicable right here in Columbus.

No one is going to "give" Black children (or white children) a good education. Parents have to (1) see that the public school system provides their children with an opportunity for a good education and then (2) see that their children work hard to take advantage of that opportunity.

For the past three Columbus School Board elections, I have run for the office of School Board (and lost) on the issue of delegating some of the School Board's quality control responsibilities to each school community. These building site school councils would be public bodies with members elected by parents, school staff, and community residents.

The responsibilities of these school councils may include: program evaluation, providing a local forum for problem solving, setting annual goals for the school principal, and participating in the evaluation of that principal. The proposed school councils would complement the fund raising activities and social functions conducted by the building PTA/PTO's. While the PTA/PTO works on "dessert", the school council would concentrate on "meat and potatoes".

The basic steps in a layman-type program evaluation are: Understand and concur with the School Board's goals and methods of measurement in an area of interest; Examine the statistical results of tests or surveys; Compare the students' performance with defined goals; and Reinforce good performance by staff and/or students with public commendations and come up with ideas and programs for improving the weak areas.

This simple four-step process may be used for almost any school activity: academic instruction, "school climate", community relations, etc.

If citizens are really interested in accountability in public education, I recommend they vote for candidates who will delegate quality control responsibility to those who care the most — concerned parents of children who attend a public school and conscientious teachers who serve at the school.

Sincerely,
Bill Buckel

Editor's Note: Buckel is a candidate for the Columbus School Board.

Electoral offsprings

How was Zeke Forbes, city clerk, to know what the future might bring? There are some events we can predict.

We can also predict that some Blacks will allow their inherited feelings of servitude to a disoriented slave mentality of self-hate to govern their, seemingly, rational acts.

It's known that some Blacks have endorsed this self-hate concept by disdaining the dark skin and kinky hair of Blacks.

Now comes James Barrett, candidate for city clerk, who has decided to give additional dimensions to the self-hate concept. Previously he (Barrett) had expressed his political disenchantment with George L. Forbes, city council president and brother of Zeke Forbes.

In addition, Zeke Forbes' financially-starved major white opponent, School Board member Benny Bonanno, will be long remembered for his past deceitful appeals to Black voters and his present racist appeal to white voters.

Even a weak candidate, like Barrett, will long be remembered for aiding the Bonanno candidacy rather than aiding his own candidacy. At the same time his (Barrett) candidacy can verify that even "Uncle Tom" has Black ancestors.

In the past, white democratic voters have clearly substantiated that Black political candidates have little attraction for them on election days. Therefore, Bonanno never needed a Black candidate to aid him with white voters, rather he needed a Black candidate to split the Black vote.

Barrett fills this need. Whether or not this interracial duo achieves the defeat of Forbes is dependent on how many electoral offsprings they produce.

Politicians comfort cold-blooded killer

Recent developments in the Marlene Steel murder case prompt me to write these observations.

Former Judge Robert Steel was convicted of first degree murder in that he hired Ronald Robbins to kill his wife, Marlene. Much has been said in criticism of Governor Richard F. Celeste for reducing his sentence. What seems to have been overlooked is that a deal was made between former Governor James Rhodes and Prosecutor John T. Corrigan to secure the testimony of Robbins.

Robbins, a cold-blooded, racist, mad-dog killer during the Glenville Riots vowed to shoot and kill the first "Nigger" (Black) he saw and wrote "N" on the head of the bullet. The first Black he saw was Ted Brown, a Black popular singer and entertainer.

He viciously carried out his vow, shot and killed Brown. Robbins was later arrested and convicted of first degree murder in connection with his killing of Brown by an all-white jury and sentenced to life in prison (Ohio's death penalty statute had been ruled unconstitutional). While in prison he contacted Corrigan and made a deal to testify against Steel by admitting that he had killed Mrs. Steel after being hired by Steel.

After testifying, Corrigan and Ex-Governor Rhodes caused this two-time vicious murderer to be released from prison after serving less time than Steel.

Marlene Steel's life was wasted. So was Ted Brown's. Marlene Steel's life was important. So was Ted Brown's. It seems to me that

Who has bothered to mention that Ted Brown's untimely, cruel, and racist death by murder, causing him to leave to mourn and suffer, a wife and four children.

Who speaks for them? No one has bothered to ask.

Remember this racist, mad dog killer is now free to kill again, thanks to Corrigan and Rhodes.

Very truly yours,
Stanley E. Tolliver, Sr.,
Cleveland, OH.

Wake up Bobby

I recently saw Bobby Seale on A.M. Cleveland. During the show, a woman caller commented on the "controlled society" in which we live. As we all know, our society is full of racism and hate. The Black struggle has been appalling.

Bobby's new approach on life is that being political isn't going to change the establishment one bit. He appeared to be brainwashed into a very commercial, materialized world. He wouldn't be in the same room with a person of his thinking today, if he were the Black Panther leader we knew when civil rights struggles and Blackness were upon us.

It seemed to me that he was trying to get his bar-b-que cookbook and video off the ground. The bottom line was dollars and cents.

The caller also was trying to give an example (such as Billy Jean King's scandal vs. Vanessa Williams' scandal) but of course Scott Newell wouldn't let her finish her comment-Controlled again!

Others also knew the point the caller was making. Bobby did too!

The point was they never, ever let us live our mistakes down, when in fact, any white person can have a scandal, pick up the pieces and go on having a productive and prosperous life. In addition, scandal appears to enhance their careers.

It's a Black-white issue. It will never be equal, nor will we be able to get along with a society that is designed to keep the Black man and Black woman down. The racial injustice will always exist in this society—until we find a solution. That solution is change.

When this does finally take place: Somebody please wake Bobby up! Maybe it's the ribs!

Reincarnation of a nightmare--sub-minimum wage concept

BY SHERMAN N. MILLER
Call and Post contributing writer

Representatives and direct es shall be apportioned ng the several States which be included within this union, ording to their respective bers, which shall be deter- by adding the whole ber of Free Persons, includ- those bound to Service for a m of Years, and excluding ans not taxed, three fifths of other Persons...." wrote the nding Fathers in the U.S. titution. This statement legit- ted Black Americans being gated to chattel. Clearly this a dehumanizing economic rse to perpetuate slavery in dawn of freedom.

he above statement is an eme example of what happens n economic data are viewed ough parochial eyes. Clearly, culture is a labor intensive ness that requires a perman- source of cheap and dependa- labor to remain competitive. Is sufficient reason to re-duce slavery into America ay?

et the contemporary concept "Sub-minimum Wages" for erica's black youth is nothing re than the reincarnation of the nding Fathers' three-fifths of a person nightmare. It is very easy to argue that the free market is currently valuing unskilled black youth labor correctly at a sub-minimum wage rate. But a holistic view of the labor market coupled with a guesstimate of the psychological damage done to Blacks highlight the folly in the sub-minimum wage concept.

During a recent vacation, I noticed many food service industry businesses had signs up still attempting to recruit people in late summer. Furthermore, the nation's unemployment rate is currently very low; thus it has become an employee's market. The law of supply and demand portends Black youth labor values be revaluated upward.

If we examine the debilitating impact of the sub-minimum wage concept, we see that it proclaims to the world that America's Black youth are sub-human beings. The sub-minimum wage concept tells these black youth that America does not expect them to excel because excellence is only in the province of full human beings. Can any youth, regardless of color, strive for excellence when his own family constantly calls him worthless?

When I hear Black civil rights leaders lamenting because conservative Black economists strongly push the sub-minimum wage concept, I get distressed at their failure to blunt this Black youth serfdom. On the other hand, if racist South Africa can let the Japanese people be considered honorary whites, then perhaps the Ku Klux Klan has found a way to open its doors to a select group of conservative blacks.

I am a firm believer that blacks in the public view have a responsibility to make holistic assessments of their data before taking a deleterious stance on issues which seriously impact the Black community. But this begs the question, "Is there a common ground where the liberal National Black leadership and the highly visible conservative Blacks and/or white conservatives can join forces?"

It is common knowledge that a job exodus occurred in large centers of the Black population. Yet I get the distinct impression that liberal Black leaders are shunning conservative tainted ideas that will be a boon to the Black community. The Enterprise Zone is a conservative tainted concept that possesses the trapping of bringing significant outside investment dollars into many minority communities.

Republican U.S. Senator John Heinz of the State of Pennsylvania once expressed hope that a good idea like the Enterprise Zones did not get lost in partisan politics. I must admit I thought this concept was dead with the advent of Tax Reform. Nevertheless, U.S. Representative Tom Carper (Democrat) of the State of Delaware rekindled my hope.

In a personal letter Carper wrote, "...The Ways and Means Committee, The House committee with jurisdiction over taxes, does not appear interested in considering enterprise zone legislation. However, The House Banking Committee, of which I am a member, recently approved an omnibus housing bill (H.R. 4) which authorizes the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to designate 100 nominated areas as enterprise zones."

I trust, therefore, that the U.S. Congressional Black Caucus will work with Representative Carper and Senator Heinz to bring meaningful jobs into the Black community.

Thoughts For Labor Day

By SENATOR HOWARD H. METZENBAUM
Call and Post Contributing Writer

It's hard to believe another Labor Day is rolling around already.

Labor Day means something different to just about everybody. For most of us it's a bittersweet reminder of a summer gone by too fast.

For others, it's the lunch bucket you don't have to pack, or the lab coat left hanging on the hook. It's the necktie that you don't have to yank off the rack. It's taking the kids to the parade and eating too much at the picnic.

It is a well-deserved and much-needed day off.

While relaxing on Labor Day, some of us might daydream about extending the holiday another week ... Or another month ... Or longer.

But imagine, for a moment, showing up for work on Tuesday morning and being told to go back home — for good. For far too many Ohioans, that scenario is all too real.

Consider the 100 workers employed at a large health care facility in Cleveland. They were given 90 minutes notice that their jobs were being eliminated.

Or the 400 workers at the Fisher Cheese Factory in Wapakoneta. On December 20th of last year, the new owners informed the employees that the plant was closing at the end of the day. How's that for a holiday greeting?

In Toledo, workers at General Battery could not sooner punch in before they had to punch out. Management informed them that their place of business was no longer in business.

With barely a moment's notice, these workers were stripped of their jobs, their paychecks, and their health benefits. They were left, however, with the same mortgage payments to make, the same utility bills to pay.

Unfortunately, these examples are not isolated instances. Earlier this year, I started a government investigation into the rash of plant closings. That inquiry revealed that blue collar workers received an average of 7 days advance warning when a plant closes. For white collar workers, it was 14 days notice on average. Would a week be enough time for you to find a new career? Two weeks? I doubt it.

Now, there are plenty of reasons these plants are closing. We're drowning in a flood of imports — many of these products from countries that pay workers slave wages. New technologies have made once valuable skills obsolete. Structural changes in our economy have caused a deterioration of job opportunities.

But analyzing the causes of the situation provides few answers to workers who desperately want to work. In the last five years alone, more than 220,000 Ohioans have been laid off because of factory shutdowns. For the most part, these are workers who are unemployed for the first time in their lives.

Dislocated workers have given employers their loyalty, their skills, their dedication and years of their working lives. They can out-compete workers anywhere in the world. We owe them much more than just our sympathy. We owe them a second chance. In an effort to provide them with that chance, I've sponsored the largest worker retraining initiative in our nation's history.

Who do minimum wage laws hurt?

Within the next several months Congress will decide whether to enact the Kennedy-Hawkins proposal to increase the minimum wage to $4.65 an hour. Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., describes the proposed increase as "essential to the very poorest of our workers," because it would "ensure full-time workers get the wage that keeps them out of poverty."

Kennedy's claim is balderdash. If the minimum wage was an anti-poverty weapon, we could save foreign aid money. Just tell poor countries like Ethiopia and Bangladesh to increase minimum wages and their workers would get a wage that would keep them out of poverty. Such advice would be recognized as nonsense, even by Kennedy. If the minimum wage can't eliminate poverty in Ethiopia and Bangladesh, it can't do it here.

Raising the minimum wage cuts off the bottom rungs of the economic ladder. It has the effect of a law saying: If you are so unfortunate that you can only produce two dollars worth of value an hour, you're not worthy of a job. No employer is likely to pay $4.65 an hour, plus mandated fringes like Social Security, to a person who only produced two dollars an hour worth of value. The brunt of the minimum wage law is borne by low-skilled workers, mostly teenagers, particularly black teenagers. Another layer of American low-skilled jobs will go the way of theatre ushers and gas station attendants. Yet another layer will go overseas where labor is cheaper.

MINORITY VIEW

BY WALTER E. WILLIAMS

few. Just to prove politics breeds strange bedfellows, let me cite some quotes from their fellow minimum wage supporters: "While definite exclusion of the Natives from the more remunerative jobs has not been urged upon us, the same result would follow a certain use of the powers of the Wage Board... The method would be to fix a minimum rate for an occupation or craft so high that no Native would be likely to be employed." Those were the sentiments of South Africa's Economic and Wage Commission back in 1925.

More recently, George Beebe, secretary of South Africa's White Building Workers Union, said, "There is no job reservation left in the building industry, and in the circumstances I support the rate for the job (minimum wages) as the second best way of protecting our white artisans." Tom Murray, head of the Boilermakers Union, said, "Job reservation is a dead duck, therefore the only protection is a policy of the rate for the job (minimum wage)."

The minimum wage law has found staunch South African support because it is a valuable tool for charlatans, scoundrels and racists everywhere. In 1909, the American Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen called for wage regulation as a way of eliminating black firemen. Racist sentiments were behind the legislative support of the 1931 Davis-Bacon Act which is still on the books. Supporters of the Kennedy-Hawkins bill may not be racists but they share the same general interests and engage in the same strategy as South Africa's racists.

If we ask Kennedy and co-sponsor Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., about this, they'd profess no racist intentions. Great! People who think intentions determine effects belong to the class who think the Law of Gravity might have a different effect on the person who stumbles off the Empire State Building than on the person who is pushed. The Law of Gravity, like the Law of Supply and Demand, is an equal opportunity law. Being hurt in the name of good doesn't feel any better than being hurt in the name of evil.

Celeste out, Jesse in

The decision by Ohio Governor Richard F. Celeste not to run for the presidency had surprised many observers, who believed that Celeste was going to run and had been urged to do so by some of his aides.

However, the Celeste "no-go", and the subsequent decision by George U.S. Senator Sam Nunn to also pass on a presidential bid, will help announced Democratic candidates — as well highlight the extraordinary difficulties in running for the presidency.

A prime beneficiary of any withdrawal: the Rev. Jesse Jackson, who is his role as the front-runner, and pre-emptive winner of the monster Southern Primary" on March 8, remain unchallenged.

What is forcing out the likes of candidates like Celeste and Nunn on the Democratic side and archconservative former Nevada Senator Paulaxalt (who also declined) on the Republican side? A number of factors, two appear to be key: money and privacy.

Money is, as one politico called it, the mother's milk of politics, and a would-be candidate usually needs a whole lot of it to form the skeleton a candidacy. Laxalt had raised some, needed more, and figured he wasn't going to get it. The fight for more, in a field which is already crowded, would have probably been difficult for Celeste, if not for inn.

Privacy is also key. Already the glare of publicity has run Gary Hart from the race; burned George Bush; and is even trying to find the image of Jackson. A number of politicians, such as New York's Mario Cuomo, have completely stayed out of the race, apparently because they are unwilling to perform a political strip tease for the benefit of gling reporters.

The major beneficiary could be Jackson. Jackson's two strengths are theological (liberal) and regional (South). Without Celeste to siphon some ideological support and Nunn to be the strong candidate around which the white South would coalesce, he seems almost certain to be the g win on "Super Tuesday," when 14 southern and six border states vote in the southern primary. On that day, when around 40 percent of Democratic delegates are chosen, Jackson could garner the bulk of the delegates.

Of course, if that happens, Jackson will come to the Democratic convention with extraordinary power as a dealmaker.

Despite Jackson's strong position, he must also be very careful. His strong position in the race threatens mainstream Democrats, who have never had to deal with a strong Black candidate telling them what to do. Already press hounds, focusing on the "character" issue, seem to be prepared to examine Jackson's personal life. If Hart felt that his Democratic challengers were planting stories about him, how must Jackson feel?

In any event, the race will be interesting. And, if Jackson plays his cards right, he will be in a position to deal himself in at the table with a strong, if not winning, hand.

'Mama I Want To Sing' to play at Palace for two night stand

At long last the musical, "Mama I Want To Sing," comes to Columbus. Show dates are Tuesday and Wednesday September 22 & 23 at the Palace Theatre. Tickets are available at CTO outlets and can be charged by calling 221-TIKS. Group ticket sales can be arranged by contacting the King Center, 252-KING. A word to the wise: get your tickets early.

"Mama I Want To Sing" has been touring since March, 1986 and has performed to rave reviews and standing room only audiences.

The press package contains at least 25 reviews and articles from at least 12 different cities. Let's take a look at the producers press release: "Mama I Want To Sing," with over 1500 performances, before 500,000 theatre-goers from New York, the east-coast and several foreign countries, is one of the major theatre 'success stories' of the decade.

With its innovative "story in concert" format, the gospel-musical has attracted a host of well-known personalities, including Diana Ross, Rev. Jesse Jackson, Ashford and Simpson, Merv Griffin, Berry Gordy Jr., Jennifer Holiday, Minister Louis Farrakhan, Dionne Warwick, Patti LaBelle, Eddie Murphy, Melba Moore, Percy Sutton, Maurice Hines, Gregory Hines, Cissy Houston, Robert Guillaume, Marla Gibbs, Ester Ralle, Linda Hopkins, Robert Hooks, Kevin Hooks, and Quincy Jones and Flip Wilson.

What was captivated, excited, entertained, informed and moved audiences is "Mama's" winning combination of creativity, imagination, energy, style and sensitivity.

Writer/directors/producers Vy Higginsen and Ken Wydro, inspired by the life of Vy's sister, international recording artist and Las Vegas performer, Doris Troy, have taken the story of a young girl who crosses over from religious to secular music, despite the strong objections of her mother, and created a musical that reaches and touches mankind.

During performances, audiences respond with every type of human emotion — laughter, tears, shouts of encouragement, hand-clapping and "amens." They obviously feel a deep connection with what is happening on stage. "Mama's" messages of love, family togetherness, cultural consciousness, friendship, pursuing one's dream and the importance of staying in contact with one's roots are delivered skillfully, movingly and convincingly by an ensemble of outstanding performers.

They include — in addition to Ms. Higginsen and Ms. Troy (who wrote the 1960's hit, "Just One Look"), Deitra Hicks, Charles Stewart and the 15 member Reach Ensemble, Kathleen Murphy-Palmer, Alexander Plummer, Randy Higginsen (brother of Vy and Doris), and Diane King.

Feature articles on and/or reviews of "Mama" have appeared in numerous publications including the "New York Times," "The Washington Post," "USA Today," "The Toronto Globe and Mail," "The Amsterdam News," "The Philadelphia News," "The Los Angeles Times," "The San Francisco Examiner," "Brutus"

TAWATHA SOLO ALBUM

Epic recording artist, Tawatha, is no stranger to success. As a founding member and lead voice of the group, Mtume, Tawatha played an integral part in such best-selling Mtume recordings as "Juicy Fruit," "Breathless," and "You, Me and He." As one of the industry's most in demand session singers, Tawatha has been heard on hit recordings by everyone from Luther Vandross to Aretha Franklin.

This year, this gifted singer finally released her first solo album, "Welcome To My Dream," produced by James Mtume. The wait was worth it; Tawatha is now riding high with the top ten hit, "Thigh Ride." For the week of August 15, "Welcome To My Dream" rose to #34 in both "Billboard" and "Cash Box." Tawatha's second single, "Did I Dream You," was released on August 17 and was accompanied by her first video.

DINO ANDERSON'S DREAM:

Columbus as a center for jazz dance

Dino Anderson is ready to shift gears as he drives into his second year as owner of Dino Anderson's Jazz Dance Columbus and the founder/director of Dino Anderson's Dance America.

Jazz Dance Columbus, located in the Short North, is a school whose primary goal is to offer each student the opportunity to learn in an environment as close to that of the professional dancer as possible. Students are encouraged to be self confident and disciplined. They develop an appreciation for jazz dance as a cultural art form. With last quarter's enrollment of 125 students, Jazz Dance Columbus is growing fast, and is Columbus' only professional jazz dance studio. Classes in jazz dance, ballet and creative movement are offered. This year the school will present "Showcase 88," to be held June 12, 1988 at Thurber Theatre.

Teen Dream performance impresses c-p music critic

By VICKI SAUNDERS
Call and Post Contributing Writer

It was the little things that marked an otherwise successful show, Aug. 23 at the Ohio State Fair for Columbus' own Teen Dream.

First, there was a slight delay letting everyone on stage for their first tune "Shake," which caused a curious hum and a few snickers from the crowd. Lead vocalist, Jerry Whitlow, 17, has quite an impressive, soulfully mature voice which compensated for the bland backing vocals of Lisa Jackson, 17, and Nikki Desiree, 16. Visually, stage appearance might have been better had the girls worn similar outfits (minus Whitlow's red leather tube wrap that played peek-a-boo with her chest throughout the show). However, her outfit, matching white pants with Teen Dream in bold red letters, was most eye appealing. Jackson's drop-waist black and white flared mini-skirt with white stretch pants and white long sleeve shirt was "teen" cute. Nikki's outfit, shimmering green pants rolled up at the ankles and an off-white shirt cut off at the waist, seemed mismatched.

But, clothes don't make the band. Sound does and Teen Dream's music is definitely ear-appealing. The horn section (sax, trombone, trumpet) was popping on "Toy" and "Slip, Slide." They played seven of the nine songs on their album, Let's Get Busy: "I Hear Talk" (fresh, melodic), ballads "Blown Away" and the heart-felt "Without You" (a duet ballads "Blown Away" and the heartfelt "Without You" (a duet with Valentino and Whitlow), and the title song "Let's Get Busy." Yes girls, a black Valentino whose voice reminds me of Howard Hewett and Donny Hathaway.

Teen Dream used a bit of unconvincing choreography in their show. They can dance, but where was that energy, that burn to those steps? Teen Dream had a few too many people come on stage during "Let's Get Busy" and the folks didn't want to leave.

Those are the little things that can make or break an act. Overall, I have to admit I liked what I heard. The musicians (three from the group Romeo Dancer) also included bass and lead guitars, two keyboardists and drums. What's next for Teen Dream? Chris Powell, producer, says a release of a third single, possibly a ballad, tour dates with The Jets, and a trip to the West Coast. He said Teen Dream has been on Tour for about a month and had less than a week to prepare for the show.

Yet, Powell was pleased with the performance as were Jerry, Nikki and Lisa who all said they felt they did a "good" job. "I think it went well," Whitlow said. "Columbus (crowd) supports us a lot." Lisa says she wants Teen Dream to stay together and "hang in there" and still pursue solo projects. Whitlow just finished Spikes Lee's "School Daze" which she said will be released in February '88. Her advice to teens wanting to get in show business: "Stay away from drugs, be the best they (can) be at whatever they choose and stay with it."

...music is fresh, melodic and earl appealing

NCBA calls on churches to honor Black elderly

The Board of Directors of the National Caucus and Center on Black Aged, Inc. (NCBA) will honor and recognize the contributions and sacrifices of the Black elderly on NCBA, Sunday, Sept. 27.

The board is urging churches throughout the country to join in observing the second annual NCBA Sunday by recognizing their elderly parishioners "in special ways."

"The many problems affecting the Black elderly call for a major effort on the part of the church and the community to dramatize the plight of the Black elderly," the board said. "We must encourage the church—our most effective community institution—to assist in the effort to improve the living conditions of the Black elderly."

The board calls on all churches to begin the following activities on NCBA Sunday:

- Take out a church membership in NCBA;
- Encourage each person in the congregation to take out a personal membership;
- Encourage members who can, to take out a life membership.

Founded in 1970, NCBA is the only national organization dedicated exclusively to improving the quality of life for the nation's 3 million Black elderly.

BANCOHIO INVITES YOU TO WALK A MILE TO SAVE A MIND

UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND / BANCOHIO WALK-A-THON

Grand Marshall-Gary Williams, O.S.U. Basketball Coach

The United Negro College Fund supports 42 colleges and universities where today's high school students become tomorrow's medical researchers, computer scientists and agricultural engineers.

More than half of the students attending United Negro College Fund colleges come from families earning less than $14,000 per year. 90% require financial aid.

You can help. And it'll be fun!

Call or send in the coupon. Get as many sponsors as you can to donate money to the United Negro College Fund based on how many miles you walk. All donations are tax deductible.

Then join BancOhio in the walk-a-thon. Bring your families and friends. We'll start at 8 a.m., Saturday, Sept. 26 at Franklin Park, and walk up to ten miles (or less if you don't feel up to the full ten).

To register and to receive a list of prizes walkers can win, or for more information call 221-5309. Or fill out the coupon below and send it in. Registration forms are also available at all Franklin County BancOhio offices.

Walk a mile to save a mind. Because a mind is a terrible thing to waste.

1987 Walk-a-thon is in memory of Helen Jenkins Davis.

MARCUS GARVEY

Gave life to Black nationalist movement

Orator, organizer and black nationalist, Marcus Mosiah Garvey was born in humble circumstances in St. Ann's Bay, Jamaica on August 17, 1887, the youngest of Marcus and Sarah Garvey's eleven children. He emigrated from Jamaica to New York in 1916, arriving unknown and unheralded.

After spending a year traveling and lecturing in several states, he settled down in Harlem in 1917. There he organized a branch of the UNIA and formally launched what would become his multifaceted economic, political and cultural international organization.

In January 1918, he began publishing a newspaper, the Negro World, which quickly became one of the leading Afro-American weeklies and a highly effective vehicle for the advancement of his Black nationalist ideas. The newspaper's French and Spanish sections carried the UNIA message to subscribers in the West Indies, Latin America and Africa.

The response to Garvey's vivid exhortations for racial pride and solidarity was almost electric; by 1920 he had many thousands of followers and there were scores of UNIA divisions chartered throughout the United States and abroad.

Liberty Hall, a large auditorium on West 138th St. in Harlem, which the UNIA purchased in 1919, became the headquarters of a genuine mass movement of international scope overnight.

Undoubtedly a major reason for the astonishing growth of Garvey's movement was his launching of the Black Star Line in mid-1919, a daring scheme that fired the imagination of Blacks.

Garvey declared that the time had come for Black people to create their own economic opportunities, and, as a first step, promised a fleet of Black-owned and operated steamships to link the Black diaspora of the New World with the African "motherland."

Its stock was limited to Black and was priced inexpensively at $5.00 a share. In the first year of operation, the Black Star Line raised over $600,000 and purchased three ships.

Another part of Garvey's program for Black economic independence was the Negro Factories Corporation, established in 1919 to provide loans and technical assistance to Blacks who wanted to start their own small businesses.

In August 1920 in New York, Garvey presided over the first international convention of his flourishing Universal Negro Improvement Association, a spectacular affair that more than lived up to the Negro World's promise that it would be the largest gathering of its kind in the history of the race. Several thousand delegates came from all forty-eight American states and more than a score of foreign countries on three continents.

When the convention adjourned, it was clear that Marcus Garvey, as no other Black leader before him, had captured the attention of masses of Blacks throughout the United States and the world, inspiring them to take pride in their color, their past, and their future.

Ultimately, Garvey, who was born in 1887, was "harassed" by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and "unjustly" convicted of mail fraud in 1923 because of the Black Star Steamship Line according to witnesses at the congressional hearing. He was jailed from 1925-1927, pardoned by President Calvin Coolidge and deported to Jamaica never to return.

100th Birthday exhibition

The life and times of Marcus Mosiah Garvey, Jamaican-born founder and president of the Universal Negro Improvement Association (UNIA), in its time the most powerful organization of black people in the world, is currently portrayed in a major exhibition at the Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture, The New York public library.

Marcus Garvey: The Centennial Exhibition, commemorates the 100th Birthday (August 17, 1887) of Marcus Garvey, self-proclaimed "Provisional President of Africa." Guest-curator by Robert Hill, one of the foremost authorities on the life and times of Marcus Garvey, the exhibition is being presented by the Schomburg Center in collaboration with the Marcus Garvey and UNIA Papers Project (African Studies Center, University of California at Los Angeles). It will remain on display through March 5.

The exhibition will feature more than 300 photographs, manuscripts, prints, publications, paintings and memorabilia drawn primarily from the collections of the Schomburg Center and the Marcus Garvey and UNIA Papers Project.

Schomburg Center Chief, Howard Doson, said: "The Schomburg Center, located at 135th Street and Lenox Avenue in the core of historic Harlem—an area that was once the hub of Marcus Garvey's and the UNIA's mass movement, is uniquely qualified to play a leading role in focusing public attention on this significant, but neglected figure in world history."

"We are especially pleased that one of the foremost authorities on Marcus Garvey, Robert A. Hill, is serving as Guest Curator for this exhibition," Mr. Dodson continued. Mr. Hill is Associate Professor of History at UCLA and Director of the Marcus Garvey and UNIA Papers Project.

Hill is a leading scholar on Garvey and has traveled around the world over 15 years doing research on his life. He is currently publishing the definitive, 10-volume collection on the life and times of Marcus Garvey. In addition, a popular companion to the scholarly edition, Marcus Garvey: Life and Lessons, is being published by the University of California Press and will be released in conjunction with the opening of the exhibition.

Commenting on the exhibition, Mr. Hill said: "This is a momentous, historic event. Marcus Garvey was an icon of New York and we're presenting, for the first time in a historical context, rare, original manuscripts, visual media and memorabilia from around the world which document in compelling ways the rise, fall and enduring relevance of Garvey and Garveyism." The exhibition is made possible, in part, by a generous grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

MARCUS GARVEY

Unjust persecution by U.S. government

The Centennial Commemoration exhibit opened after congressional hearings conducted by Reps. Charles Rangel (D-NY) and John Conyers (D-MI). The hearing was on the "unjust" persecution and deportation of Garvey by the federal government as a result of the Black leader's efforts to promote "economic" independence and self-reliance among African-Americans.

Hundreds of loyal "Garveyites" journeyed to Washington to hear the public testimony, including former colleagues, scholars, officials and Dr. Julius W. Garvey and Marcus Garvey Jr., distinguished sons of the victim. Professor Tony Martin of the Wesleyley (Mass) College Black Studies Program, saw parallels in the lives of Garvey and Civil rights activists, Elijah Muhammad, Malcolm X, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Stokely Carmichael and current Black political leaders under attack from the media and government forces.

The resolution introduced by Rangel "expresses the sense of the Congress that the mail fraud charges brought against Marcus Garvey by the Federal Government were not substantiated and that his conviction on those charges were unjust, and unwarranted... (despite) millions of signatures petitioning for his full pardon, including 9 of the 12 jurors who had convicted him..."

Conyers presided at the hearing as chairman of the Subcommittee on Criminal Justice for the House Judiciary Committee.

Unfortunately, the greatness, wisdom, and the many contributions Garvey made to increase the level of living in the Black community have been neglected and are just being recognized after his death.

AVON BEAUTY TALK

Fall '87 Fashion & Beauty Preview

Fall '87 approaches as a season of shape and color. The look is easy, natural and romantic...a salute to casual and classic elegance.

The big fashion news is that buns are up, way up. Color emphasis is on the subtle, the monochromatic. Look for muted earth tones, browns and wines, greens showing up as moss and olive; and for evening, as always, the brights...red, pink, turquoise. Kathleen Walas, Avon's Beauty & Fashion Director, answers your questions on the beauty direction of the coming season:

Q: What is the general makeup direction this fall?

A: The face is elegant, well groomed, the hard edge disappears. Look for stunning new palettes of elegant neutrals.

Q: Are there new ways to wear eye makeup?

A: Eyes are more smoky and sophisticated now. Shadowed in warm shades of grey, amber, peach. There is a new focus on eyebrows so be sure to keep yours in shape by removing stray hairs weekly. Control unruly brows by using a dab of hair gel or mousse on a brow brush.

Q: What's the best way to apply blush?

A: Always apply blush along cheekbone, blending out toward the edge of the face. Soften edges with a brush and set with translucent tan powder. This fall, create subtle highlights, flatterer contrasts with harmonizing shades of brown, wine, amber.

MARGEAX'S MARQUEE

By MARGARET ROBERTS

Melba is the President of the L.A. Chapter, The Chums, Inc., and many of the Columbus Chums and others winned, dined, and presented gifts to her while she and hubby were here for three action packed weeks. Sister-in-law and Columbus Chum, Ruth Wilson, started out the spree of fanfare by hosting the first luncheon for her and several local Chums at the Embassy Suite. Dr./M Deryck Richardson (Nadya, Melba's niece) and Chip, Jay, and David Wilson, nephews, made sure that they spent time with her. They hosted an evening of fun and games for the couple. You just can't imagine the shower of gifts Melba received and the cook-outs, dinners, luncheons, and cocktail parties hosted for them.

The givers of one, two, and sometimes three of the above were M/M James Spivy, M/M William Randolph, the Reverend/M and Faye Turner at the elegant Capital Club with Ruth, Audrey Bland (Happy Birthday, Audrey), Juanita, Sharon, Rheba, and Julia, all mentioned above in attendance.

Roberta and Faye weren't finished yet. They wanted Melba to experience another type of setting. So, they took her and hubby, Ruth and Jimmy, Sharon, LaRetta Johnson (the latter two are Faye's daughters) and Sandi Boyson to the Baby Doe Restaurant. This multi-leveled very "in" place with its many curves, makes diners feel that their party has a room to itself. Each alcove has a commanding view of Hidden Lake. It's mining theme gives the subterranean feeling of being in a mining shaft... (well, Margeaux, that's what it's suppose to do). Melba enjoyed the varied menu.

Mrs. Oscar Watson (Glenna) was unable to make those luncheons, but she was able to etch

Full-figured model loves the spotlight

By JOYCE BIRDEN
(SPECIAL TO THE CALL & POST)

Gwen Thompson is one of Columbus' rising full figured models.

Thompson's daughter got her started in modeling through her own involvement in fashion shows, talent competitions and pageants with Verwo Modeling Agency. While taking her daughter to the agency, the director, Verna Wood, asked Gwen if she would consider being one of her plus size models.

Gwen said yes and has been affiliated with the agency for five years. She has commented and choreographed fashion shows, modeled for several local stores.

Thompson also began modeling with Big Impression Model Agency. She competed in the Big Impression Model Search Pageant in Cleveland in May 1986 and was first runner up in the modeling category. She has competed in pageants in Akron, Cuyahoga Falls and walked away with honors.

In June, Thompson competed in the 1987 Carrousel Pageant in Akron winning all categories. She won the photogenic award, high point award, grand prize of a $200 gift certificate, crown, trophy, photograph and the honor of riding in the Akron July 4 parade in a white limousine. Gwen says she loves to be in the spotlight. Her next modeling assignment is at noon Aug. 30 at the Villa Milano for the St. Peter Paul Guild Show.

Thompson tells other full-figured women when they ask her about her career to "go for it." "You don't have to be thin to be beautiful."

Alla Baba Court 75 wins honors at national meet

The Columbus Alla Baba Ct. #75 won several awards at the 76th annual Imperial Court Session of Daughters of Isis Aug. 16-22 in Atlanta.

Past Imperial Honorary Commandress certificates were presented to Daughters Gladys Gates and Natalie Hunt. Hunt is completing her first year as an elected Imperial Auditor. Daughter Daisy Lewis was second runner-up for Outstanding Daughter.

Daughters Frances Palmer and Ruth Wiggins won first place in the poster contest. Daughter Gladys Gates won second place in the scrapbook contest. Daughter Dana Jones won third place with her costume in the Egyptian Tea Contest.

Daughter Lorraine Cunningham modeled a green and silver sequined dress in the fashion show. Alla Baba's drill team, under the direction of Daughter Barbara Thompson, won fifth place. During the Imperial Session, Alla Baba reported their record of community involvement. The court has participated in the UNCF walk-a-thon and telethon, volunteered at Rosemont, contributed to the Secret Santa Fund and the Century Fund.

Daughter Julia Wilson is the illustrious commandress for 1987.

Marine Corps Pvt. Michael Zielinski, son of Frank W. Zielinski of 5554 Marriatt, Toledo, Ohio, has completed basic field artillery cannoneer course at Fort Sill, Okla.

During the course, students were taught the duties of a howitzer or gun section crewman. They also received instruction in communications, maintenance and the handling of ammunition and explosives.

LAST YEAR THEY MADE OVER 375 MILLION DOLLARS.

The Ohio Lottery is proud to announce our first billion dollar year, making our 1986 contribution to Ohio Schools the largest ever. Over $375 million went to educate kids like these, so they'll have a better chance of making it on their own someday.

Deltas roundup

Alumnae of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. are being asked to respond promptly to the round-up announcement sent to all Columbus area members.

The round-up meeting set for Saturday, Sept. 12 at the Ohio State University Black Studies Community Extension Center, 950 Mt. Vernon Ave., will focus on public service programs for Columbus and the Diamond Jubilee activities.

All new members are asked to call 868-5539 or write to P.O. Box 13299, Columbus, Ohio 43213.

Football fund drive gets $800 boost from area merchants and residents

By LIZ COOK
Call and Post Sports Editor

The Mount Vernon Youth Association (MVYA) netted an $800 contribution from area residents and merchants of the near Eastside community following its football fundraising drive held Aug. 22.

President Earl Littlefield credited the drive's success to the genuine concern of the community for its youth, and noted that additional fundraisers are being planned in an effort to replace old football and cheerleading equipment and uniforms.

The drive was boosted with contributions from Melvin Stewart, owner of the Plaza Carryout, 343 N. 20th St. and Franklin Elks member James Draughon.

Stewart personally donated $100, and as president of the Mount Vernon Plaza Merchants Association (MVPMA), contributed another $50 on the organization's behalf.

"I've seen the results of what they are doing," Stewart said. "We are getting gentlemen out of these kids."

Stewart operates one of the first businesses opened in the plaza nearly 10 years ago and said many of his customers today are those very children from the community.

He hopes his efforts will motivate other merchants in the area to put their support behind MVYA. "I would hate to see it fall by the wayside," he said.

Earlier efforts on the part of Stewart, the merchants association and the Mount Vernon District Improvement Association have included the purchase of 10, one-year memberships to the Eastside YMCA for team members. He now plans to rally area businesses so that each member of the team can be sponsored.

Draughon, treasurer of the Fraternal Order Franklin Lodge of Elk No. 203, will be spearheading the MVYA fund drive. He personally contributed $25 and collected another $60 in donations from elk members and area patrons.

A former 38-year resident of the Mount Vernon area, Draughon strongly believes that keeping children's minds occupied with healthy activities such as sports is the key to keeping them off the streets and away from youth gang violence.

Draughon added contributions are still welcome and may be forwarded to him at 139 S. Central Ave., No. 29, Columbus 43222, or at the Franklin Lodge of Elk, 133 N. Monroe Ave., Columbus 43203. Additional information may be obtained by calling 276-2971.

REINSTATE CARTER—Grady Bobo (left), 40, an airport employee and 22-year-old purchasing agent Kenny Green said Cris Carter should have been allowed to return to OSU for his senior year of football.

OPINIONS MIXED

The decision is in, Carter out at OSU

By LIZ COOK
Call and Post Sports Editor

The final decision has been made. After nearly one and a half months of harsh actions and speculation Ohio State University's leading receiver Cris Carter, has played his final season of football at that university.

The decision was announced Monday, (Aug. 31) by OSU President Edward Jennings following a meeting with Head Coach Earle Bruce and Athletic Director Rick Bay regarding Carter's reinstatement.

Carter was "permanently" suspended by the university July 15 after he admitted violating NCAA rules after signing with agents Morby Walters and Lloyd Bloom in May 1986 and subsequently receiving $6,800.

Amid much criticism from Bruce and fellow Big Ten coaches, Carter decided to enter the National Football League's supplemental draft. That draft now scheduled for tomorrow (Sept. 4), was previously cancelled after another NCAA rule violator, Teryl Austin, was reinstated to his team after he agreed to sit out two games and repay the money he accepted.

The move raised the hopes of Carter, Bruce and many loyal Buckeye fans that the All-America still had a chance to complete his senior year of play.

In light of Jennings' decision, a WCMH-TV poll taken (Aug. 27) indicated that 70 percent of the voting audience favored Carter's return to the squad.

In a random survey taken by the Call & Post Saturday, (Aug. 29), the majority surveyed felt Carter should not be reinstated but have the opportunity to enter the supplemental draft.

"Yes, I think he should be able to play," said airport employee Grady Bobo, "it's a tough situation for those guys who play on the college level and have no income." Bobo, 40, said, however, that if he was allowed to play there should be some penalty.

Purchasing agent Kenny Green, 22, said, "I feel that he should be able to play for OSU again and go to the NFL without anyone saying anything about it." "Anyway it goes I think he's a terrific football player and should have the opportunity to do anything he desires."

Mel Nowell, 47, self-employed and a member of the Buckeye's

1960 NCAA Basketball Championship team said Carter should not be allowed to play again for OSU because he outright violated NCAA rules. Nowell favored Carter's entering the NFL's draft. He noted as a possible solution that "scholarships should include more income, therefore, eliminating the need to receive any money illegally."

Human Resources professional Fred Parker, 31, again said no to Carter's reinstatement. "I think if he broke NCAA rules and took the money he shouldn't be allowed to play," he said. Parker added that he should have the opportunity to play in the professional league. He said Coach Bruce's actions over previous weeks were too harsh.

"I think Carter clearly knew the rules before he did this," transit worker Dave Johnson said. Johnson, 35, agreed Carter should look to the NFL draft. Johnson said Black athletes that attend Ohio State are virtually under a microscope and should take their conduct under more careful consideration for themselves and future Black athletes.

LOOK TO THE NFL—Businessman Mel Nowell (left), 47, and 35-year-old transit driver Dave Johnson said Cris Carter should look to continue his career in the NFL.

Bearcats out to retain city loop championship

By LIZ COOK
Call and Post Sports Editor

The month of September and the start of another school year this week in Columbus go hand in hand with high school football which officially gets underway Friday, (Sept. 4).

While Mifflin was the only city league squad to capture a playoff berth last year, the City League Championship title remains an honor teams thirst for.

To win that title reigning City League champions Brookhaven must be dethroned. Head Coach Greg Miller and his team realize their being targeted for defeat.

The Bearcats, who are optimistic about a repeat performance, will start their battle at Beechcroft tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

Miller has a strong, experienced team entering the season. Fourteen seniors are returning to the team, 12 from last year's starting unit. "We have some really good kids back for us this year," he said. "Drawing from our reserve team last year which finished 7-3, we have experienced kids and kids who have experienced winning

NBA stars help raise $500,000 for UNCF

1987 is truly Earvin "Magic" Johnson's year. Magic was voted the National Basketball Association's (NBA) Most Valuable Player (MVP), chosen MVP in the NBA championship play-offs, and his team, the Los Angeles Lakers, won the World Championship.

The Magic Man shared his good fortune with the United

Negro College Fund last month

by raising over $500,000 during a dinner, a silent auction and an All-Star basketball game that attracted the league's top athletes. The fund raiser was billed as "A Midsummer Night's Magic II."

"I won before I stepped out on the court," said Johnson. "No one loses, because people are having a good time."
"We hope to do it every year," he added.

Vincent Bryson, area development director for UNCF, would like to hold Johnson to his commitment, since the game is the single largest fundraiser for his organization. "The funds are used for everything from scholarships to purchasing new equipment to upgrading facilities."

"I feel like the UNCF just won the world championship," Bryson said. "Not only did we win in the amount of money raised, but also in the exposure of our colleges. People are going to respond to that. I'm sure we'll see additional benefits — more volunteers and more contributions. It's an unglamorous use of money gotten in a glamorous way."

WE'RE FOR UNCF! -- The second annual "Magic" Johnson all-star basketball classic, held in Los Angeles to benefit the United Negro College Fund attracted celebrities and fans from across the country. Seen at the Forum in court-side conversation at halftime were from left: Hollywood cinema star, Jack Nicholson; Anheuser-Busch President Waymon F. Smith III; popular song stylist, Nancy Wilson; and basketball legend, Bill Russell, now general manager of the Sacramento Kings.

Last year's game raised over $350,000 for UNCF, and it also caught the eye of NBA players who didn't play in that first game but wanted to be a part of this year's event, Johnson noted.

Among the NBA stars present were: Michael Cooper, Lakers; Mike McGee, Spud Webb, Dominique Wilkins, and Kevin Willis, Atlanta Hawks; and Isiah Thomas, Detroit Pistons.

Self-defense class offered

The Ohio Women Martial Artists will sponsor a free introductory self-defense and martial arts class for women and girls ages 8 and older every Sunday at 3:30 p.m. and Wednesdays at 6:15 p.m. at Thompson Recreation Center, 1189 Dennison Ave.

Also, an 8-week session on self-defense class for children ages 6 to 12 years old, will begin Sept. 9, at the center. For further information, call 268-6873.

A MAGICAL NIGHT -- Special tribute was paid to Earvin "Magic" Johnson for his leadership efforts on behalf of the United Negro College Fund during halftime ceremonies at the All-Star benefit basketball classic he organized at the Los Angeles Forum. Participating in the presentation was Vincent Bryson, UNCF development director. The weekend festivities, billed as "Midsummer Night's Magic II," was sponsored by Anheuser-Busch, and it raised over $500,000 for the college fund and its 42 member schools.

ROGER W. TRACY
"we clearly need to do better next time"

Commissioner Tracy calls hiring managers a 'mistake'

vices Department.
"No," he said. "Blacks are not being frozen out of the county personnel."

On the question of whether the three county commissioners are wholeheartedly committed to affirmative action, Tracy snapped: "Once George Miller, former director of Human Services Department was hired, in my mind, that satisfied affirmative action goals."

Miller, Tracy explained, was one of the eight managers they hired, and at that time he was to direct the largest department.

Asked why the three commissioners had not corrected the inequity in the hiring practices, Tracy said: "Yes, that was a mistake. I agree that at least two of those managers should have been Black."

He said, "We clearly need to do better next time. Soon, too. But right now we cannot fire someone and replace that person with a Black because we want to meet the affirmative action guidelines."

Commissioners Dorothy Teater and Jack Foulk were unavailable during the interview with Tracy.

The CALL & POST learned in the interview with Tracy, Jeff Carbot, county administrator and John Hahn, director of Human Services Department, that the three commissioners appointed a 3-man committee in January, 1985 to make recommendations to them on qualified applicants for key positions within the county.

"The committee was informal because we didn't have a county administrator then," Carbot said.

The committee comprised Carbot, Teater's aide when she was a city councilwoman; Joe Potenza, County Benefits coordinator, who worked for Tracy in the auditor's office, and John Peterson, supervisor of the Fiscal Services and "a good friend of Commissioner Foulk."

Tracy recalled that the selection of the 3-man committee (now disbanded), was "a compromise worked out that each of us would get to pick someone to represent us on the committee."

Tracy said, "The new process now is that County Personnel Specialist Mary Lou Heisman, is responsible for screening job applicants and recommending qualified ones to the commissioners for high-level positions."

Commissioner Tracy said he is upset and very disappointed with the statements made by Rev. M.J. Mitchell in the Aug. 27 edition of THE CALL & POST. Rev. Mitchell indicted the three commissioners for what he called their insensitivity to Black community needs despite some members of the clergy supporting Tracy, Jack Foulk and Teater during their reelection campaign.

Tracy said, "I am very disappointed by his (Mitchell's) comments. I have been treated unfairly. I intend to talk with him about it."

Tracy also talked about what he called "his excellent track" record in fulfilling the affirmative action, as a former Franklin County Auditor and as a commissioner.

According to employment statistics from the Commissioners' offices, out of a total of 203 employees in the county commission's offices, in 1984, 78 percent were white, while 20.7 percent were Black; in 1985, out of a total of 189 employees, 71.9 percent were white and 27.5 percent were Black; in 1986, out of 180 employees, 81.1 percent were white, and 18.3 percent were Black, and so far this year, out of a total of 211 employees, 81.5 percent are white and 18 percent are Black.

All the figures quoted do not include those of the Franklin County Human Services Department, or Alum Crest.

In the Human Services Department, there are eleven Black top administrators and six whites. Four of the top seven salaries are those of Blacks, according to the figure released by Tracy, while 11 of the top 17 salaries are those of Black.

Appeals court upholds man's conviction

Franklin County Court of Appeals Judge Archer Reilly last week upheld the conviction of Anthony D. Simmons, 27, on a charge of aggravated murder.

Simmons was convicted by a three-judge panel in the April 6, 1986 shooting death of Mark A. Anderson, 20, as the victim sat with his girlfriend, Kelly Horn, in the parking lot at Sister's Chicken, 631 E. 5th Ave.

Simmons was sentenced to life with the requirement that he serve 33 years before being eligible for parole.

Public Defender John W. Keeling appealed Simmons' conviction on the grounds that Simmons was guilty only of involuntary manslaughter.

In upholding Simmons' conviction, Judge Reilly said: "There was substantial credible evidence for the court to find that the defendant held a .38 caliber pistol within 6 inches of the victim's left eye, and after the victim refused the defendant's demand for money, purposely pulled the trigger."

during the day, Capitol South and Short North shopping, airport proximity to downtown, Martin Luther King Center, and Black attractions and entertainment.

"In addition, we were able to offer all of these things at a lower price than some of the so-called first-tier convention cities," said King.

"But the principal element was that these people were shocked to see Columbus as a major convention city. They had thought of us as a one-horse town."

Convention headquarters will be at the Hyatt Regency. King emphasized that the hotel's spirit in arranging accommodations was an important factor in the decision. Representing the hotel was Roddy Herron, sales manager.

Dodge applauded the group's decision. "This demonstrates one of the important messages we try to communicate," he said. "A visit here by an inspection team usually will lead to a convention commitment. Anybody exposed to our city can't help but be impressed."

Detailed planning for the 1990 event already has begun. Some of the group's national leaders attended a session September 3 at the Peppercorn Duck Club, Hyatt Regency, led by King.

NAACP to probe alleged job bias; reactions mixed from Black leaders

By TED OSHODI
Call and Post City Editor

The Columbus Branch of the NAACP will begin an investigation next week in the alleged inequity in the hiring practices of the three Franklin County Commissioners, and the Human Services Department, said Melanie Mitchell, president of the association.

In the Aug. 27 edition of THE CALL & POST, Rev. M.J. Mitchell, pastor of Pilgrim Baptist Church, called on the NAACP and the Ohio Civil Rights Commission to investigate an allegation that "there is an effort afoot in the Franklin County Human Services Department to root out" Black officials in key positions.

NAACP President Mitchell said, "I think Rev. Mitchell has a legitimate concern and the NAACP shares his concern, and will definitely be looking into it. I am pleased to see more and more leaders publicly expressing their indignation regarding discrimination in the city of Columbus and County."

Melanie Mitchell said, "We will be contacting the three commissioners to get their formal written responses to those allegations. This is a first step. We also plan to talk with Rev. Mitchell."

Also, in last week's edition of THE CALL & POST a question was raised as to whether the County Commissioners are "wholeheartedly committed" to affirmative action.

Brown said, "As of today, to my knowledge, no charges have been filed against the three commissioners."

Some Black community leaders have mixed reactions to Rev. Mitchell's statements during interviews with them.

REV. ODELL WALLER
...there is racial discrimination everywhere"

Robert Brown, executive director of the Ohio Civil Rights Commission, told THE CALL & POST: "Whenever acts of discriminatory practices take place, either in the public or private sector, we will investigate it. For those who practice discrimination in any of the areas that the OCRC has jurisdiction we would enforce the law to the utmost."

Pastor H. Jay Scott, of Galilee Baptist Church, and president of Baptist Pastors' Conference, said: "Not all members of the clergy supported Roger Tracy during the last election campaign. I believe there is an effort not only in Franklin County to root out Blacks, but across this nation."

Scott said "It seems there are those who are trying to undo the work that has been done. That quote speaks for itself."

Scott also said: "I do have problems with the politicians who come out during election campaign to seek what they call the 'Black votes'."

He said the problem is "they promise you the Moon and they give you nothing."

Scott said "those" politicians should be made aware that moves are being made to strengthen the Black clergy votes and their influence."

Pastor R.F. Hairston Jr., Refuge Baptist Church: "I concur with everything Pastor Mitchell said. I think the time has come that pastors in the city should be concerned about qualified Blacks in administrative and top positions. As a Republican, I personally supported Dorothy Teater, Roger Tracy and Jack Foulk for their re-election."

Hairston said, "I would use my influence on the voters of this city to support Republicans who are concerned about the Black community as a whole."

Pastor Odell Waller, of Tabernacle Baptist Church, and former president of Baptist Ministerial Alliance: "To know what is going on in the county administration you want to look at the records of the personnel hired. It is easily believed that there is racial discrimination in hiring practices all over Columbus, not only in the county commissioners' offices. It is blatant all over the city."

Waller said if the county commissioners need some assistance in getting qualified Blacks, "then our Black ministerial groups could facilitate the recruitment."

Rev. J.B. Harris, pastor of Grace Independent Methodist Church, and president of the Coalition of Concerned Clergy, said: "It is my belief that all of the allegations raised in Pastor Mitchell's statements are true. I commend him for addressing the issue. Like E.F. Hutton, when M.J. Mitchell speaks, we should listen."

Rev. Odinga Lawrence Maddox, pastor of First AME Zion Church and president of the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance, said: "I am unfamiliar with the details of this investigation. I share similar concerns as Rev. Mitchell, that is, about any government administrator who proclaims that he or she 'cannot find qualified Black people for certain positions.'"

Pastor Maddox recalled: "During the 1970's, for example, it was not uncommon to find large numbers of our college students pursuing graduate level degrees in the field of social work and more recently, human services. Then again, perhaps the real issue is one that is submerged in 'politics.' Is there a pool of Black professionals that fit the partisan position that prevails within the Franklin County government and, if so, are they willing to play the political games that they are certain to face?"

Commissioner Roger W. Tracy told THE CALL & POST Tuesday that he plans to contact presidents of the Black ministerial groups and arrange a conference with them soon on the alleged discriminatory hiring practices in the county administration.

Dayton chapter of artists to be featured in display

Art for Community Expression, Inc. will feature members of the Dayton Chapter of the National Conference of Artists, Inc., Saturday, Sept. 5 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m., at the gallery located at 772 N. High St. The exhibition will continue through Sept. 29.

The Dayton Chapter was founded in 1983 in response to the need for a format for African American visual artists to exchange ideas concerning art education, production, marketing, management and art policies. The organization's membership includes artists throughout central and southwestern Ohio, including professional and students.

The National Conference of Artists has local, regional and state chapters across the United States, Brazil, Haiti, West Africa and Mexico. National and regional conventions are held annually and attended by many of the finest Black artists in the world.

LEGAL NOTICE STATE OF OHIO DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES COLUMBUS, OHIO

Pursuant to Sections 5101.11 and 2301.35 and Chapter 119 of the Ohio Revised Code, the Director of the Ohio Department of Human Services gives notice of the Department's intent to consider the adoption of child support services rules as are identified below and of a public hearing thereon.

The rules are being proposed to meet the legislative mandate of Sub H.B. 231 as it impacts on the child support program.

Rule 5101.1-29-01 entitled "Child Support Enforcement Agency" establishes the county child support enforcement agency as the responsible entity for providing IV-D program services at the local level, describes the title of child support enforcement agency (CSEA) as incorporating all other entities formerly performing functions now performed by the CSEA and requires the child CSEA to enter into a contract with the Board of County Commissioners.

5101.1-29-04 entitled "Monitoring of Child Support Enforcement Agency" lists program performance requirements, defines performance standards, provides for regular evaluation of county performance and provides for sanctions for corrective action for noncompliance.

5101.1-29-05 entitled "Title IV-D Case Definition" describes what a Title IV-D case is, and states that all cases eligible for IV-D services shall be a IV-D case.

5101.1-29-06 entitled "Child Support Enforcement Agency Services to Non-IV-D Cases" describes what services the CSEA shall provide and shall not provide to non-IV-D cases.

Rule 5101.1-29-09 entitled "Lien for Insurance" shows the CSEA to request the Board of County Commissioners to obtain liability insurance for CSEA employees.

Rule 5101.1-29-10 entitled "Establishing Case Priorities" provides guidelines for case assessment and prioritization.

Rule 5101.1-29-11 entitled "Case Closure and Suspension Criteria" establishes criteria for closing or suspending a Title IV-D case.

5101.1-29-12 entitled "Non-ADC Application Fee for Child Support Services" requires that a fee of one dollar shall be charged to each non-ADC IV-D recipient, and describes procedure the CSEA shall follow when a Non-ADC IV-D case is transferred to another county.

Rule 5101.1-29-13 entitled "Application Procedures ADC and Non-ADC Recipients" describes the procedures the CSEA must have in place to assure that both ADC and non-ADC applicants receive the services required.

Rule 5101.1-29-131 entitled "Right to a State Administrative Hearing" lists hearing rights for services provided under Title IV-D of the Social Security Act.

Rule 5101.1-29-132 entitled "Notice of Right to State Administrative Hearing" states applicants and recipients of Title IV-D services shall be given notice of their right to state administrative hearing.

Rule 5101.1-29-133 entitled "Grounds for Requesting a State Administrative Hearing" specifies the requirements for a IV-D applicant/recipient requesting a hearing.

Rule 5101.1-29-134 entitled "Request for Administrative State Hearing Defined" defines a hearing request as a clear expression by the individual for authorized representative for a hearing.

Rule 5101.1-29-135

entitled "Time Limit for Requesting a State Administrative Hearing" advises the individual has 90 calendar days in which to request a hearing on any action or inaction Rule 5101.1-29-136 entitled "Local and State Agency Responsibility" provides requirements for a local county conference or direct state administrative hearing.

Rule 5101.1-29-137 entitled "Procedure Prior to the State Administrative Hearing" specifies two workdays for the local child support enforcement agency to forward requests to the ODHS Bureau of Child Support and to prepare an appeal summary within 5 workdays from the date the hearing request is received.

Rule 5101.1-29-138 entitled "Access to Documents and Regulations" provides that the appellant and/or authorized representative be provided at a reasonable date before the hearing or during the hearing copies of pertinent documents except for confidential information.

Rule 5101.1-29-139 entitled "Legal Representation" states both the appellant and the local child support enforcement agency have the right to be represented by legal counsel.

Rule 5101.1-29-140 entitled "Denial, Dismissal or Postponement of Administrative State Hearing" states the local agency may not deny or dismiss a hearing request but must forward the request to ODHS.

Rule 5101.1-29-141 entitled "State Hearing Procedure" provides that the hearing shall be conducted informally and that formal rules of evidence shall not apply.

Rule 5101.1-29-142 entitled "Notification of Date of State Administrative Hearing" provides that the scheduling notice shall be mailed at least 10 calendar days prior to the date of the hearing.

Rule 5101.1-29-143 entitled "Lien for Insurance" shows the CSEA to request the Board of County Commissioners to obtain liability insurance for CSEA employees.

Rule 5101.1-29-144 entitled "Role of Agency Representative" states the agency representative presents and is the advocate of the agency's case at the hearing.

Rule 5101.1-29-145 entitled "Role of Appellant and Representative" provides that they shall have adequate opportunity to examine pertinent records, bring witnesses, submit evidence, advance arguments and questions or refute any testimony or evidence including cross-examination of adverse witnesses.

Rule 5101.1-29-146 entitled "Role of Administrative Hearing Reviewer" states the administrative hearing reviewer shall be a person who has no personal stake or involvement in the case and was not directly involved in the initial determination being appealed. It further provides procedures relative to the format of the hearing and the authority of the administrative hearing reviewer.

Rule 5101.1-29-147 entitled "State Administrative Hearing Decisions" states the reviewer is responsible for preparing hearing decisions and the Chief, Bureau of Child Support is the hearing authority.

Rule 5101.1-29-148 entitled "Basis for Hearing Decisions" lists the guidelines for the administrative hearing reviewer's findings of fact.

Rule 5101.1-29-149 entitled "Content of Decision" sets forth the issue or issues to be decided, the reviewer's findings of fact, conclusions of policy, recommendations, and the decision and order.

Rule 5101.1-29-150

entitled "Notification" requires the appellant be provided written notification of the hearing decision.

Rule 5101.1-29-151 entitled "Hearing Record and Library of Decisions" requires the Bureau of Child Support to establish and maintain a library of all state administrative hearing decisions.

Rule 5101.1-29-152 entitled "Binding Effect of Decisions" mandates hearing decisions be binding on the local CSEA.

Rule 5101.1-29-153 entitled "Corrective Action Pursuant to Decision" requires prompt and full implementation of hearing decisions.

Rule 5101.1-29-154 entitled "Appeal of State Administrative Hearing Decision" provides for adjudication hearings conducted pursuant to Chapter 119 of the Revised Code.

5101.1-29-27 entitled "Arrears" defines support arrears, and describes when the arrears shall be assigned to ODHS for reimbursing public assistance paid out to the college.

5101.1-29-27T entitled "Collection of Modified Arrears" describes when a court may retroactively modify averages, and instructs the CSEA to collect only the amount of arrears existing after a court modification.

5101.1-29-31 entitled "Distribution of Support Payments Upon Termination of Public Assistance" describes procedures for support to be distributed to family after ADC is terminated.

5101.1-29-32 entitled "Medical Support" requires the CSEA to secure and enforce medical support, as appropriate, for all IV-D cases.

Rule 5101.1-29-41 entitled "Collections on Behalf of Another State or Ohio County" describes the procedure the CSEA must use for handling child support collections on behalf of another state of Ohio county.

5101.1-29-50 entitled "IV-D Agreements" specifies that the CSEA shall enter into agreements with and for what services and mandates that the CSEA remains responsible for IV-D activities.

5101.1-29-53 entitled "IV-D Agreements for Legal Services" describes the requirement for the CSEA to enter into agreements for legal services and the procedure to follow.

5101.1-29-57 entitled "Content of Agreement" describes the content of IV-D agreements and delineates difference between monetary and non-monetary agreements.

5101.1-29-71 entitled "Child Support Collections Made by the CSEA" requires the CSEA to separate collections between IV-D and Non-IV-D, and between ADC IV-D and Non-ADC IV-D. Also this rule defines what is the date of collection.

5101.1-29-77 entitled "Automatic Assignment of Support Rights" describes the automatic assignment when a person becomes a recipient of ADC, and requires the CSEA to forward ADC IV-D collections to ODHS.

5101.1-30-40 entitled "State Guidelines for Child Support Awards" requires ODHS to provide copies of the guidelines to all CSEA's and to all court officials who set child support award amounts.

5101.30-42 entitled "CSEA Investigation On Employment/Income Status of Obligor" describes the procedures the CSEA shall use when conducting an investigation on the obligor.

5101.1-20-421 entitled "Basis for Hearing Decisions" lists the guidelines for the administrative hearing reviewer's findings of fact.

Rule 5101.1-29-149 entitled "Content of Decision" sets forth the issue or issues to be decided, the reviewer's findings of fact, conclusions of policy, recommendations, and the decision and order.

Rule 5101.1-29-150

to monitor its cases to ensure that withholding orders are issued by the court when required by the O.R.C., and to notify the county prosecutor when the court fails to issue such order.

5101.1-30-45 entitled "Spousal Support as Part of IV-D Case" states that spousal support shall be considered part of IV-D case if a related child support order exists, and describes procedure the CSEA shall follow when spousal support is part of the IV-D case.

5101.1-30-48 entitled "Reporting of Changes in Income/Residence" requires the CSEA to inform the court whenever it receives any notices regarding changes in income/residence from employers, other sources of income, obligors, or obligees.

5101.6-18 entitled "State Child Support Allocation" sets forth the ODHS allocation of funds for reimbursement of the nonfederal share of allowable administrative expenditures, and includes the composition of funds, restrictions for receipt, the allocation methodology, county certification, and chargeable expenditures.

5101.7-982 entitled "Child Support Maintenance of Effort" sets forth the maintenance of effort requirements associated with state matched child support funds.

5101.7-971 entitled "Depository Account for Child Support Collections" sets forth that each CSEA establish a depository account for deposit and disbursement of child support collections, and that disbursement be made within two business days of receipt.

5101.7-972 entitled "Child Support Enforcement Administrative Funds" sets forth that each CSEA create and maintain an administrative fund for operation of the Child Support Enforcement program.

5101.7-973 entitled "Administrative Funds Resulting from Child Support Collections" sets forth the requirements for the transfer and use of administrative funds retained by the CSEA that result from child support collections.

5101.7-974 entitled "Child Support Enforcement Agency Administrative Advance" sets forth that ODHS shall advance funds twice each month to be deposited in the CSEA administrative fund, and adjust the advance for actual administrative expenditures as reported each month.

5101.7-975 entitled "Child Support Enforcement Incentive Flow" sets forth the ODHS administrative fund twice each month and be adjusted for earned incentive each month.

5101.7-976 entitled "Receipt of the ODHS Child Support Expenditure Report" sets forth that ODHS will hold the CSEA mid-month advance until the child support expenditure report for the previous month is received.

A copy of the proposed rules is available without charge to any person affected by them at the address listed below.

Virginia Homes. The Hometown Favorite.

For over 30 years we've been building Virginia Homes in Central Ohio. More than 10,000 families live with us. We're quite proud of that fact, even though it means we have a considerable responsibility.

You've come to know we stand for quality. That's why we continue to believe in quality construction. That's why we find the best materials at volume prices you'll appreciate. And above all, that's why we build in craftsmanship. The kind of craftsmanship that comes with years of experience and dedication.

Certainly, we could build homes another way. But for us, one of the most rewarding parts of building quality homes is that people in Central Ohio come to us because a friend said, "Go see Virginia Homes." And when we are recommended by a friend who is a Virginia Homeowner, we find that all our effort was worth while. See for yourself.

Clues sought in rash of E. side burglaries

Columbus police are seeking leads in a continuing series of apartment burglaries on the city's far east side. The break-ins have been designated Crime of the Week in the Crime Solvers Anonymous Program.

Since May 18, there have been over 60 apartment burglaries in an area bounded roughly by James Road on the east, Broad Street on the south, Allegheny on the north, and Roosevelt on the west. Thieves are cutting or removing window screens, and taking cash, purses, T.V.'s VCR's, stereos, microwaves, and jewelry. Many of the offenses are occurring between 3 a.m. and 5 a.m.

Crime Solvers Anonymous is offering a reward of up to $1000, with a deadline of Sept. 10, for any information leading to an arrest and indictment in any of these burglaries. Information received after Sept. 10 could qualify the caller for a lesser reward.

Crime Solvers Anonymous also takes calls from persons with information about any felony. Information leading to the arrest and indictment of a felony suspect could qualify the caller for a reward as determined by the Crime Solvers Anonymous Reward Committee.

A special coding system protects the identity of the caller but allows him to be contacted at a later time. Reward funds come from private donations to Crime Solvers Anonymous, Inc., a non-profit organization sponsored by the Columbus Division of Police and fire, Columbus CALL & POST, Columbus (Downtown) Kiwanis, Channel 6 WTVN-TV and 610 WTVN Radio, Columbus Messenger, and Suburban News Publications. Donations are tax deductible and can be sent to Crime Solvers Anonymous, P.O. Box 1225, Columbus, Ohio 43216.

Man indicted with death penalty specifications

A Franklin County grand jury indicted Ronald Molton, 38, Aug. 31 on a count of aggravated murder with death penalty specifications in the 1986 slaying of a Columbus woman.

Molton, who is wanted in Cleveland for a 1983 murder and other crimes, is charged in the murder of Charity Stone, 39, of 2306 Margaret St., Columbus.

He was still being held Tuesday in the County jail on a $750,000 cash or surety bond. He has been scheduled for arraignment Sept. 4 in Franklin County Common Pleas Court, according to records.

Homicide Squad Sgt. John Cherubini said records show that Cleveland authorities are looking for Molton for an aggravated murder charge and other felonies.

Police said Molton was brought into the police headquarters Aug. 21, for questioning and was subsequently charged with the murder of Stone.

Detectives said the body of Stone was found bound with cords in her upstairs bedroom at her Margaret St. address. She had been stabbed several times with a knife.

Police said, Molton, whose last address was 32 Butties Ave. would be extradited to Cleveland after "answering to the charge against him here in Columbus."

Application deadline extended

A 30-day extension of application deadline for the Ohio Energy Credit Program for help with winter heating bills has been granted to senior citizens and disabled Ohioans eligible for the program. The new deadline is Sept. 30.

Ohio Tax Commissioner Joanne Limbach, who announced the extension, urged eligible Ohioans who have not yet renewed their applications to do so right away. "The warm weather we are enjoying now will be just a pleasant memory come January," she said.

To be eligible for Energy Credit assistance, a person must either be head of the household or spouse, 65 years of age or more during this year or permanently disabled, or have total 1986 or 1987 incomes of $9,000 or less.

Standard applications for new applicants and for persons who cannot use the renewal cards are available at banks, libraries, post offices, senior citizens centers, area offices of the Ohio Department of Aging and district offices of the Ohio Department of Taxation.
